

mination of the masses, he would have been a dangerous candidate for governor against Deeney.

He would have been pretty certain of a big support from the independents who have been rallied to the radical standard in recent years, for that vote never would have believed that a bona fide member of the longshoremen's union—a man who actually did the work of a roustabout on the Seattle docks, as Jim Ham Lewis did it—would go very far wrong on their policies. Lewis would have raised all sorts of trouble with the tremendous union vote of the city of Chicago.

But the genius of the Democrats for doing the thing at the right time stood handsomely in the stead of the Republicans. Lewis was turned down and Stevenson nominated. Now it will be a question whether Democratic displeasure with Stevenson or Republican dissatisfaction with Hopkins will cause the more trouble. Certain it is that in both parties the desire for more radicalism has been thwarted so far as the primary result is concerned, and that the situation is left so mixed that conditions are anything but settled.

Hopkins Gives Returns, Declaring Self Victor

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Private returns received by United States Senator Albert J. Hopkins, Republican, today not only place his plurality over Representative George E. Foss at 30,442, but give him thirty-three out of fifty-one legislative districts and eighty-nine out of 125 members of the Legislature in his fight for re-election.

It is announced today that the primary vote will be bolted, and that a strong effort will be made in the Republican legislative caucus in January to defeat Hopkins.

Foss declares that he is "still the candidate of the people." Governor Deeney's plurality over Richard Yates, according to today's figures, has reached 14,970.

without the city, attacked the revolutionary strongholds with desperation, when they learned that an army of Young Turks was on the border, only awaiting word from Constantinople to rush to the aid of the revolutionists. The success of the attack and the complete rout of the Shah's enemies, has strengthened the Shah in his determination to resist Turkish interference to the last. Fresh troops are now being rushed to Tabriz to forestall the threatened march against the city by the Young Turks.

Details of the fighting that resulted in the overthrow of the revolutionists were not given in today's message, but it is known that the battle was of the most desperate character.

Mehmed Ali Recalled; Reorganizing Turk Corps

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Confirmation that the Sultan had recalled Mehmed Ali Bey, the Turkish minister at Washington, was received here today.

A dispatch from Constantinople also announces that Salih Muntz Pasha and Husein Pasha, the Turkish ambassadors to France and Russia, respectively, had been recalled and that before the Sultan is through the reorganization of his diplomatic force, practically the entire ambassadorial staff will be changed, including the incumbents at Belgrade, Berlin and Vienna.

There are no specific charges of incompetency or maladministration made against Mehmed Ali Bey or any of the other diplomats who are to be removed. The Sultan is leaving nothing undone to meet the demands of a free people. He has liberated the Turkish press, is permitting religious freedom, and has himself offered to build parliamentary buildings.

Naval and military exiles are returning unhindered and in many cases are being restored to their old places.

4,000 WILL BE SUED IN LAND FRAUDS

Bills in equity have been drawn up against nearly 4,000 defendants in Oklahoma, who hold titles to certain of the Indian lands within the jurisdiction of the Five Civilized Tribes.

Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Russell has just returned to Washington, after conducting the investigation.

BOY AND HIS FAITHFUL GUARDIAN

GUS AND NELLIE, Who Wants Strangers to Keep Away From Her Young Master.

YOUNGEST PRISONER DEEP IN QUANDARY

Takes Arrest Calmly, But His Pet Dog Suspects All Strangers.

Seated on his front porch, his arm around his pet dog, Nellie, who tried to guard him, little five-year-old Gus Opitz, who was arrested last night by Officer Clay, the giant policeman of the Fourth precinct, tried to decide this morning why he had been arrested. He said he had done nothing. The dog said nothing, but gazed with a savage intensity on each visitor and made each visitor feel embarrassed by taking an unwholesome interest in his trousers.

According to the police, Gus was arrested for destroying private property. The extent of the depredation consisted of taking six lathes from a disused and disreputable shanty, and nailing them together that he might get a kite that was caught in a tree.

The residents of the neighborhood in which Gus lives are intensely wrought over his arrest, and are unanimous in their declaration that it was unjustified. Gus is not worried over the matter. In a calmly, judicial manner he insists that the officer is a "mean man," and expresses the conservative opinion that he will come to no good end.

This afternoon the matter will be threshed out before Judge DeLacy at the Juvenile Court.

Gus was arrested by the policeman last evening as he was peacefully poking at his kite, which was lodged in the topmost branches of a tree. A large crowd, attracted by the unusual picture of a six-foot-and-a-half policeman arresting a five-year-old child, hoisted at the unresponsive Clay.

At the station house the boy's father agreed to be responsible for the lad's appearance in court today.

Wealthy Importer Goes to Kill, Appointment Determined to Kill, But Gets Arrested.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Fully intending to kill the man who had threatened him, Basil Stroules, twenty-eight years old, a wealthy importer, of 45 New Bowery, armed himself with a magazine revolver early today and went to 10th street and Amsterdam avenue in response to a blackmail letter, which demanded that he bring $1,300.

Stroules saw a band of men lurking in the bushes and was about to fire when two mounted policemen appeared. Four of the men were arrested, also Stroules, for carrying weapons.

COMMITS SUICIDE IN DESPONDENT FIT

Theodore Foster, Southern Railway Draughtsman, Shoots Himself.

Despondent it is believed on account of an unsuccessful farm adventure, and unbalanced from the effects of an attack of walking typhoid fever, Theodore Foster, a draughtsman in the employ of the Southern railway, shot himself through the temple at his home in Tuxedo, Md., last night. He died almost instantly.

Reports from Tuxedo indicate that the act was done on the spur of the moment as Foster had but a short time before left his young wife, and, walking into the back yard, entered a hen house a pistol shot being heard soon afterward. Foster went home ill last Thursday, complaining of nerve-racking pains in the rear of his head. Physicians later pronounced the attack walking typhoid, and it is the effects of the devastating disease that his friends attribute his act of self-destruction.

Mr. Foster was thirty-eight years of age and had been with the Southern railway for a year. He was considered an able draughtsman. He was a native of Dunkirk, N. Y. He married in this city two years ago, and was a brother-in-law of Fred and George Emrich, of the well-known firm of commission merchants. The young wife is said to be prostrated by the shock.

BUY SCHOOL SITE ON TWELFTH STREET

Commissioners Pay $55,400 for Property—Building Needed to Relieve Congestion.

In order to relieve the crowded conditions of the Franklin and Thompson schools, the Commissioners have purchased a site in the vicinity of Twelfth and L streets northwest for the erection of a new building.

The price named is $55,400. As the area is not quite large enough for the purpose, and as no price could be obtained for the property between the site of the new building and L street, the Commissioners have instituted condemnation proceedings to acquire it.

Congress appropriated $25,000 for the purchase of the site, the building to be erected at a cost not to exceed $300,000.

DIRECT TESTIMONY HELD UNRELIABLE

Judge Kimball Says He Depends More on Circumstantial Evidence.

"Circumstantial evidence is the strongest evidence in the world. The longer becomes my service on the bench and the more cases I try, the more I am convinced of this."

Judge Kimball, who has served on the bench for nearly a score of years, and has tried nearly 200,000 cases, made the above statement from the bench in the United States branch of the Police Court this morning.

"The more cases I try," said the judge, "the more I am impressed with the peculiar trait of human nature that will make witnesses tell an untruth about some small matter that they imagine will affect them, and they will squirm and twist and get out of it in any way they can. I am convinced that some of these witnesses have not been telling the truth, yet I can not say they are lying. I can only say that they are not telling the truth, and consequently can not say that they perjured themselves."

It was charged against Richard Granderson that he had assaulted Fannie Hall and Samuel Wade. Six witnesses, all of them Government witnesses, and one a friend of Fannie, testified with many variations, and with one exception it was apparent that each individual mind had made out its own strongest case.

Every witness contradicted the others as to the circumstances, blows, cause, how, sequence. The blows numbered from two to four, in some cases in quick order, in others with a wide interval, a lapse of fifteen minutes and a change of scene. Every point was at variance, and all this from eye witnesses.

TRACTION BOARD CONDUCTS INQUIRY

Commissioners Request Statistics Showing Cost of Car Line From Brightwood.

Whether the Washington Railway and Electric Company disobeyed the law in 1902, by failing to put on record the fact of its acquiring control of the Brightwood Railway Company, is a question which the District Electric Railway Commission may take up in the near future.

After searching in vain in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for copies of any contracts or sales showing that the Washington Railway and Electric Company controls the Brightwood railway, the District Electric Commission has decided to assume that such control does exist. It has, therefore, instructed Secretary H. C. Eddy to request the Washington Railway and Electric Company to furnish the commission with statistics showing what would be the cost of operating a through line from Brightwood to this city.

Through Car Line Wanted.
The question of such a line has been before the commission almost since it was appointed. Vice President George H. Harries of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, as vice president of the Brightwood Railway Company, in reply to a letter sent by the commission, stated that the expenses of a through line would be so great that no such service was being contemplated. This reply was regarded by the Brightwood Citizens' Association officials in a letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission, as being "vague and unsatisfactory."

The District Electric Railway Commission thereupon instructed its executive to secure copies of any contracts and sales that might be on file in the office of the Recorder of Deeds showing the financial relations between the Washington Railway and Electric Company and the Brightwood Railway Company. That was a week ago. At a special meeting of the commission yesterday, Mr. Eddy reported that he found two copies of contracts and deeds in which the Washington Railway was concerned, but neither referred to the Brightwood Railway Company.

One of the deeds found concerned the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company, and another the Columbia Railway Company, showing that the Washington Railway and Electric Company has acquired control of these.

CAMP GOOD WILL ENJOYS BARN DANCE

Children and Mothers Have Fine Time on Their Last Night.

"Aw, shucks, but those city kids had a good time." It was farewell night for fifty of them at Camp Good Will, and they had a barn dance. Did they enjoy themselves? Well, rather.

It wasn't any city barn dance either, like society folk give, but a real old-fashioned country one. And masked! Sure, a hundred of them. All different, too.

Camp Good Will? You never heard of it? Well, it's a camp on the edge of the city, where they send city youngsters to have a good time for a couple of weeks. The Associated Charities runs it.

Today fifty of them will return to the city. That's why there was something doing last night. Also it might be mentioned that fifty more will go to the camp tomorrow. They always have a full hundred out there.

Before Camp Good Will was Camp Good Will a farmer owned the place and erected a large barn. Last night it was decorated with lanterns, and Sambo waxed the floor. Sambo? Well, that's the name of the barn, but that's what the children call him. He's an old sea salt, and says he has been shipwrecked nineteen times and marooned twice. But that's another story.

Anyway he waxed the barn floor and the fun began. Each child had a mask, and each had a costume. They made the old barn ring with their joyous shouts until the cows in an adjoining stable began to wonder what had happened.

Now, after a while it was time for the youngsters to go to bed. So, after they had all been tucked into the cots in the tent, their mothers, women who had forgotten how to be young for many years in the vexations of city life, returned to the barn, and danced. And after they had danced and danced until they had worn the wax on the floor to a frazzle, refreshments were served.
